Pennywise was having a blast going after the Derry Kids when there was a commotion upstairs in his lair of the old Harris Mansion. He heard movement at the well entrance and when he crawled up he saw 3 little kids or prey at the well entrance. One was a fat kid in a striped shirt, one was a toddler with a mustache(wtf) and a little girl in a black dress and pony tails. Perfect prey for him which he thought. Big mistake.

He began to scan or read their minds for any fears but what he found in their minds some of the darkest minds ever he read with no fear to use. He tried many forms which caused nothing but smiles from the 3. He was getting nervous and used his ultimate attack of using the deadlights which caused them to laugh which frightened the clown.

The toddler started crawling up his leg and latched with his teeth which caused him to yelp, and the others pull out some rope and a net with a strange book. He tossed the kid away and started to run scared from those demon kids; he managed to get to the entrance when he saw the loser club coming towards the house. When he saw them he screamed," Help ME!" which caused the kids to pause in shock. When he reached the entrance he stepped in a snare which looped around his feet and was pulled back deeper into the house.

When he finally stopped he saw the 3 kids plus an old woman who chanted some latin and he felt his power leave him and the net went around him and then everything went dark. Next thing he knew he woke up in a clear cage, he looked around and saw many cages which had different figures. One had a doll with wild hair, overalls, and scratch marks which was climbing all over the cage. A giant zombie with a hockey mask was standing doing nothing. There was a giant man with a butchers apron with a human skin mask trying to break out. There were so many creatures, puppets, dolls, monsters, a strange cube with chains around it, and people just stuck in cages including ghosts.

He looked to his left and saw a freaky burned man doing a crossword puzzle, he looked at Pennywise and said,"Hello I am Freddy, welcome to the Addams Family Collection. Those kids got you too with their grandma which bound your powers and captured you and put you on display for their family and themselves. Nabbed me after going into an victims dream, Jason got picked up by the butler giant, Michael the same. Chucky was picked up by the toddler, be careful he bites. Poor Pinhead was traumatized after the girl solved the puzzle and when he came to collect was collected himself and each pin in his head plucked. So long story short dude, be prepared to be here for a long time." In which the clown cried.
